This course will emphasize the development of practical communicative ability in Arabic along with cultural knowledge of Arabic speaking countries.

Prerequisite(s): ARB 202

ARB302 Advanced Arabic
Hours 3
This course is a continuation of their ARB 301 advanced level in Arabic. Students in this course will continue with their three textbooks (Arabic Literature, Arabic Media & Arabic Grammar) that would expose them to new contexts, sentence structure, and vocabulary. The students will be trained to negotiate meaning in more complex contexts. In addition, students will engage with several language skills (reading, writing, listening, speaking, and translating) through political and cultural contexts.

Prerequisite(s): ARB 301

ARB350 Culture and Society in Africa and the Middle East: Present and Past
Hours 3
Students will learn about the social, cultural, geographical, religious, linguistic, historical, and other aspects of the Arab and middle eastern culture. Students in this course will gain knowledge about certain topics, such as social values and identities, minority groups, religious influence, technology in the Arab world, daily life practices and traditions. Students will watch movies and videos, and read chapters related to the topics discussed. In addition, students will learn about gender relations, multicultural issues, and male-female dynamics. Course taught in English.

ARB351 Introduction to Modern Arabic Literature in English Translation
Hours 3
This course introduces students to various texts of modern Arabic prose and poetry and their development through time. We will discuss literary traditions, genres, and styles in Arabic modern literature from the Middle East and North Africa. We will cover: Poetry, short story, and novel. We will also explore the political, economic, and social issues Arab writers confront, such as, the effect of history, literary tradition, and religion on modern text writing. Other topics will also be discussed: Literature and resistance, Arab women writers and the Arab Spring context in today’s Arab literature. This course is taught in English.

ARB355 The Arabian Nights
Hours 3
This course introduces students to the Arabian Nights (One Thousand and One Nights) in translation. The Arabian Nights are a collection of stories framed in one story narrated by Shahrazad. The narratives are a mixed potion of magic, love, fear, and death. This course will discuss the history of the tales as well as the different translations, in addition to the socio-cultural concepts of antagonists and protagonist forces, such as magic spells and the Jinni. The students will cover a variety of tales: Sinbad, Ali Baba, and Aladdin. The course will also examine the Islamic context in the Arabian Nights.

ARB363 Women in the Arab World
HU, L, W
Hours 3
This course allows students an in-depth look at the diverse women who represent a number of cultures in the Arab world and to study such women through the eyes of leading Arab women theorists. Students will explore the Arab woman's place in her respective society, in political and economic systems, in education, and in the family and analyze the Arab woman's contributions to art and literature as well as to the sciences. The course will provide an overview of the Arab woman throughout history. A passing grade in a W designated course is contingent upon students writing coherent, logical, carefully edited prose in a minimum of two papers, one of which must be completed, graded, and returned by mid-semester. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course. Rubrics are available for each assignment.

Prerequisite(s): There are no prerequisites for this course and it is open to students of all levels; course conducted in English.

CL222 Greek Roman Mythology

HU

Hours 3

Greek and Roman mythology is at the spiritual core of much of Western civilization. For the ancients, myth was a religion, a means of alleviating common fears, a way of adding structure to the world, and a means of communicating values from one generation to the next. For literary authors and dramatists from ancient times to now, myth has provided a mechanism for conveying the desired message and image to the reader's mind. For material artists of all periods, myth has been a favorite subject matter. Thus, the investigation of myth should be undertaken early in one's studies in order to lay the foundation for understanding other cultural and artistic disciplines.

Humanities

CL300 History of the Early Church

Hours 3

This course covers the main events, processes, figures and texts in the history of Christianity in Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages. The course begins with the introduction in which we will discuss the historical, social, and intellectual factors that influenced the development of early Christianity, its cultural connections with Judaism and Hellenism, and the appearance of the formative texts of Christianity. The subsequent lectures will be organized chronologically. The course also pays its due attention to the Byzantine Church and Eastern Christian traditions (Syriac, Coptic, Georgian, Armenian, Slavic, Arabic).

Prerequisite(s): None

CL323 Alexander the Great, Then & Now

HU

Hours 3

In this course, students examine the vision and impact of Alexander the Great, whose military expedition to North Africa and the Middle East offers a model of a stable political structure on a global scale. Alexander’s activity ranged from Greece to India. The world he encountered was as foreign, diverse, strange and occasionally averse to his Western sensibilities as it is to us today. Yet, his vision was to overcome xenophobic tendencies (both among the conquering Greeks and the conquered people) and create a global and inclusive empire that was enriched by the different races, cultures, religions and civilizations it encompassed. This course is broad in scope and content and takes a global perspective regarding the factors of Alexander’s success, emphasizing the history and appreciation of the Humanities, rather than simply the ability to perform tasks at the written level. The study of Alexander’s achievement cultivates an appreciation of history and the Humanities on a practical level, while developing the students’ ability to deal with questions of values, ethics, and aesthetics on a global and historical level.

Humanities

CL333 Greek Civilization: Myth, History, Culture

HU

Hours 3-6

This course is taught in Greece and aims at introducing students to the history and culture of Greece, from antiquity to the modern era. Greece is at the crossroads between Europe, Africa and the Middle East and, as a result, a variety of cultures have left their cultural marks in the area: Egyptian, Minoan, Roman Christian, Muslim and Jewish. Yet, in the course of time, the Greeks have developed their own particular civilization, which is characterized by tremendous inventions, discoveries and technological advancements that have impacted the Western world and its identity. The Greeks do not claim to have invented the wheel, but to have used it in order to give the world theater, art, architecture, the Golden Mean, geometry, the Parthenon, automated machines, medicine, philosophy, the first universities and, above all, democracy. Students participating in the Greece program learn about (i) the value of myths and legends associated with historical sites; (ii) the history and important events in every site; and (iii) the influence of Greek culture on the modern world.

Humanities

CL344 Julius Caesar: Life, Death, and Legacy

W

Hours 3

This course examines the figure of Julius Caesar, and his reception in later eras, through his own writings and later texts that re-imagined his life and achievements. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course.

Writing

CL350 Roman Religion

W

Hours 3

This course provides an in-depth study of the public and private religious practices of ancient Rome from the earliest times into the Christian period. Students will learn about the rituals (calendrical festivals, burial rites, special celebrations) and structures (the priesthood, temples, State control, etc.) that constitute Roman religion along with the worldview behind it. Some attention will be given to theoretical aspects and comparative anthropological models. This is an advanced course for majors or minors and for those with a broader interest in the study of religion. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course.

Writing
CL365 Greece & Rome in Literature & Film
HU
Hours 3
This course uses a two-step approach to ancient literature: epic poems, dramatic plays, historical works and historical biographies are, first, analyzed for their own value as pieces of timeless beauty and wisdom; then, they are seen in the light of film adaptations, as they are repurposed for the benefit of modern audiences. In the process, students learn to appreciate the literature while becoming competent in critiquing films based on their portrayal of ancient culture. Overall, this course addresses student ability to deal with questions of values, ethics and esthetics as they are represented in literature, film and related fields in the Humanities. It also emphasizes the history and appreciation of the Humanities, rather than simply the ability to perform tasks at the written level. Nevertheless, this course will include substantial writing assignments that encourage the development of critical thinking and require students to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate knowledge.

Humanities
CL380 Special Topics
Hours 3
Detailed investigations of specific aspects of Greco-Roman civilization such as ancient drama, women's lives, ancient religion, and technological achievements.

CL385 History Of Greece
Hours 3
This course surveys the history of Rome from its founding to its fall, beginning with the first settlements in what would later be the city center of Rome ca. 1000 BC, and ending with the collapse of the Empire in the West in AD 476.

CL386 History Of Rome
Hours 3
Introduction to the ancient history of Rome, with emphasis on the Republic from its Etruscan beginnings to the Second Punic War, and on the golden age of Caesar Augustus at the beginning of the Roman Empire.

CL450 Aristotle: How Stuff Works
W
Hours 3
This course covers the life, thought, and influence of the Greek philosopher Aristotle with a particular interest in his system of logic (the syllogism), and doctrines of ontology, change, causes, knowledge, the natural world, the soul, ethics, and other aesthetic matters. Readings from Ackrill's selections of Aristotle will serve as a gateway into these topics. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course.

FR310 Global Citizenship through Service Learning in French
FL

Hours 3

This course is designed to expand upon the existing volunteer program FLEX (French Language Exploration) which currently teaches French and Francophone culture at University Place Elementary school. Students enrolled in this course will engage in a hands-on service-learning project at University Place Elementary school lessons with an emphasis on understanding different Francophone cultures and understanding what it means to be a global citizen. This experiential learning course will develop students' French language skills, leadership skills, along with interpersonal and presentational communication skills while gaining real-world experience using the French language. Through course readings, discussions, development of cultural and language teaching materials, service at the local elementary school, and written reflection on the experience students will gain a deeper understanding of the complicated connection between language, culture, identity, and global citizenship.

Prerequisite(s): FR 201 and FR 202

Foreign Language
FR321 Writing and Imagination
W
Hours 3
Introduction to literary and cultural analysis through selected works of French cultural expression. Emphasis on expanding vocabulary and improving grammar in order to develop speaking, reading, and writing proficiency beyond the second year. In this third-year French-language course, students focus on improving reading, writing, listening and speaking skills. Students develop basic knowledge of, strategies and techniques for reading French for comprehension and analysis without the massive and systematic use of a dictionary. With that purpose in mind, we read accessible and engaging short stories and online or print articles introduced and followed by analytical and creative writing activities that integrate the techniques of description, characterization, narration, and dialogue effectively. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course. Class instruction, interactions and participation will be entirely in French.
Prerequisite(s): A grade of C- or higher in FR 202 or FR 212. Study abroad equivalent: FR 328.
Writing

FR322 Advanced French Grammar
Hours 3
Review of French grammar with emphasis on written exercises. Study abroad equivalent: FR 329. Usually offered in the fall semester.
Prerequisite(s): FR 202 or FR 212

FR323 Writing and Analysis
W
Hours 3
In this dynamic and intensive writing course, students develop and perfect their conversation and writing skills in French as they engaged their perspective and activate their creativity through assignments based on visual, audio, and print media. In this course, writing assignments will be progressive (from 1-2 pages to 4 pages or more), promote peer-editing, offer ample opportunities for rewrite, and emphasize fluidity, coherency in argument as well as grammatical accuracy in French. Because the course carries a W designation, students fulfill a University of Alabama writing requirement through extensive writing practice that also calls upon and develops critical thinking skills. A passing grade in a W designated course is contingent upon students writing coherent, logical, carefully edited prose in a minimum of two papers, one of which must be completed, graded, and returned by mid-semester. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course.
Prerequisite(s): A grade of C- or higher in FR 202 or FR 212

Hours 3
This course uses a semester-long experiential approach designed to engage students in performing real-life and business-related tasks in French. In the course, students progress from performing internship-search related activities to working as an intern for a sustainable travel organization. Analysis of work-related protocols, written and oral communications, CVs, job interviews, travel and professional documentation, political and economical challenges in French-speaking countries provide opportunities to develop interpersonal, interpretive and presentational skills as well as engage a critical reflection on local, political, historical and economic factors that affect tourism in French-speaking countries.
Prerequisite(s): FR 321 or FR 322 or FR 323

FR325 Cultures and Conversations
FL
Hours 3
Using authentic multimedia documents (extracts from newspaper, newscasts, films and radio shows, polls, infographics, advertising, short films, social media posts, press photos), this course explores culturally situated perspectives as well as concepts such as freedom, equality, solidarity secularism, and lifestyle using the thematic backdrop of food and fashion.
Prerequisite(s): French 202; or equivalent from another institution; or a 5 on the AP French exam
Prerequisite(s) with concurrency: FR 202
Foreign Language

FR326 Business French
HU
Hours 3
This course concentrates on the mastery of business vocabulary useful for those working in international corporations and various economic institutions in France and throughout the French-speaking world. This vocabulary will be learned and practiced through a series of activities encountered by those who live and work in France and Francophone countries. Students will also become aware of the cultural contexts in which such vocabulary is used. Students will become familiar with actual forms and manuals commonly found in the French-speaking business world (taxes, import-export forms, insurance, banking, etc.). Subjects of study include telecommunications, banking, information technology, sales, advertising, the stock market and investments, sales and revenue taxes, and the organization of companies. At the end of the course, students will have the option to sit for the exam leading to a French diploma certified by the Chambre de Commerce et d'Industrie Paris-Ile-de-France, a diploma which is recognized worldwide.
Prerequisite(s): Course prerequisite is French 202 or equivalent
Humanities
FR327 French for International Relations
Hours 3
This course is a skills-based introduction to the use of French for international relations. It is designed to prepare students to acquire the B1 level language diploma in French for International Relations offered by the Chamber of Commerce and Industry (CCI) of Paris Ile-de-France. Beyond the acquisition of this diploma, the skills learned in this course (such as presentation, synthesis of information, and negotiation) will position them to succeed in careers in international relations, whether in diplomacy, international business, or non-governmental organizations.
Prerequisite(s): FR 321 or FR 323

FR328 French Conversation-Abroad
Hours 3
Contemporary French society and culture. Direct on-site cultural exposure. Analysis of recent cultural media (e.g., journalism, literature, song, film) in context. Emphasis is on written exposition, oral proficiency, grammar review, and critical appraisal in relation to an immersion experience in French culture. Offered in France. For purposes of satisfying the requirements of the French major or minor, this course can be used in lieu of either FR 321 or FR 323.

FR329 Adv Fr Grammar-Abroad
Hours 3
Study abroad equivalent of FR 322: Advanced French Grammar.
Prerequisite(s): FR 201

FR330 French in the News
Hours 3
This course will be dedicated to discussions of current news in French-speaking countries and the study of principles of journalistic reporting. Students will examine the concepts of freedom of speech and freedom of the press within the context of the French-speaking world. Students will consider how the 5Ws (Who, What, Where, When, Why?) are addressed in television and radio broadcasts, local and national news articles from print and online news sources and how journalists use tenses to express facts, hypotheses, and opinions. Various creative projects, in-class oral presentation, and in-depth analyzes of how journalists use sources to create news will enable students to put principles into practice as the student develops their ability to narrate and describe events.
Prerequisite(s): French 202; or a 5 on the AP French exam.

FR331 French Civilization
Hours 3
This course offers an introduction to visual and material culture in the French-speaking world and how it has evolved from the Middle Ages to today and how artistic production was impacted by political and social structures of its era. We will explore developments in architecture, fine art, decorative arts, photography and film, and examine how the acquisition of colonial territories affected the production of art in France and around the world. Students will have the opportunity to develop their own interests in museums around the world and to demonstrate what they have learned creatively.
Prerequisite(s): FR 321 or FR 323

FR339 French Civilizatn-Abroad
Hours 3
Offered abroad. May be used in lieu of FR 331 to satisfy the requirements of the French major. In-context total immersion will be conducive to a better understanding of French culture, history, and civilization. Many visits to museums, historic sites, and artistic performances will allow for hands-on experiences. This knowledge will be reinforced in classes held abroad to improve language and cultural skills.
Prerequisite(s): FR 201

FR341 Survey Fr Literature I
L, W
Hours 3
French literature from its origins through the 18th century. Readings from major authors, lectures, and reports. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course. Offered fall semester.
Prerequisite(s): FR 321 or FR 322 or FR 323

FR351 Survey Fr Literature II
L, W
Hours 3
Survey of French Literature II covers the post-revolutionary through the modern periods. Key authors, from Chateaubriand to Mallarmé (19th century), from Proust to Anne Hébert (20th century), and key literary movements, from pre-romanticism to the new novel, are introduced with a view to exposing students to modern French literary history. A selection of works of various genres (poetry, short story, novel, play) are read, analyzed, and discussed in relation to past and present. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in the course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course. This means written assignments (all in French) require coherent, logical, and carefully edited prose, and students are expected to demonstrate higher-level critical thinking skills, including analysis and synthesis. Class instruction and participation will be in French.
Prerequisite(s): FR 321 OR FR 322 OR FR 323

Literature, Writing
FR352 Survey of Global French Literature
L, W
3 hours
Explores important works of literature of French-speaking regions around the world including the Caribbean, Africa, and Canada. Using a trans-historical approach, this course includes texts from the major literary movements of the late- and post-colonial periods, such as Négritude, Pan-Africanism, Créolité, and Antillanité. Works of various genres (nonfiction, fiction, poetry, theater, and film) are analyzed in relation both to literary and geopolitical history. This course is conducted exclusively in French. As a W-designated class, writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course.
Prerequisite(s): FR 321 or FR 323

GN102 Elementary German II
FL, HU

Hours 4
GN 102 is the second semester elementary German course. It entails the acquisition of all modes of communication, language structure, and culture.
Prerequisite(s): GN 101 with a grade of "C-" or better, placement exam, or permission of instructor.
Foreign Language, Humanities

GN103 Accelerated Elementary German
FL, HU

Hours 4
Accelerated Introductory German meets 5 hours/week and covers all materials from GN 101 and GN 102 in one semester. This class deals with virtually all content in the textbook, the electronic workbook, and discussion topics. This is a fast-paced course, which requires active participation inside and outside the classroom. Successful completion of GN 103 fulfills the foreign language requirement of the core curriculum.
Foreign Language, Humanities

GN201 Intermediate German I
HU

Hours 3
German 201 is the third course in a four-semester proficiency-based language sequence. This course, intended for intermediate students, stresses the four language skills areas: speaking, writing, listening and reading. Students complete reading, writing and listening assignments at home, which then become the basis for student-to-student interaction, small group work and role-play in class. The textbook covers topics and themes related to German language and literature and also provides texts pertaining to famous philosophers and artists, such as writers, musicians, and dramatists. The course will further cover German politics and history. Students will be reading reading texts from various genres, such as poems, excerpts of plays, newspaper articles, and short literary texts. Additional readings/materials will be provided by the instructor.
Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate level GN 102 or GN 103 with a minimum grade of C or UA Foreign Language Placement Exam in German with a minimum score of 417.
Humanities
GN202 Intermediate German II
HU
Hours 3
German 202 is the fourth course in a four-semester, proficiency-based language sequence. German 201 is the prerequisite. This course, intended for intermediate students, stresses all four language skills: speaking, writing, listening, and reading. Students complete reading, writing and listening assignments at home, which then become the basis for student-to-student interaction, small group work and role-play in class. Additional readings will be provided by the instructor. Both the textbook and the readings address a variety of cultural topics dealing with life in German-speaking countries.
Prerequisite(s): GN 201 with a grade of “C” or better, placement exam, or permission of instructor.
Humanities

GN205 Living German House I
Hours 2
Students living in the German House agree to speak only German, under the supervision of a house director who is a native speaker of German.

GN206 Living German House II
Hours 2
Students living in the German House agree to speak only German, under the supervision of a house director who is a native speaker of German.

GN240 Introduction to German Linguistics
Hours 3
Course introduces students to basic linguistic concepts as they apply to German and language generally. What are the different kinds of German spoken by different speakers in varied places? Why are there different kinds of German used? We will also examine the sounds of German (phonology), word parts (morphology), how the parts stream together (syntax), lexicon, semantics, and how German fits in in the broader world. Taught in English.
Prerequisite(s): None

GN250 Germanic Mythology
HU
Hours 3
Much like mythology of ancient Greece and Rome, Germanic mythology provides a rich abundance of traditional stories that help students better understand and appreciate the history, attitudes, and aesthetics that developed within the Western cultural heritage. Throughout history, Germanic mythology has provided powerful visions of nature and the cosmos, justice and injustice, communities and individuals, power and helplessness, life and death, and values and ethics. These are universal themes that we still explore today, and part of the power of myth has been its ability to provide a space for people throughout the history of western civilization and in the present day to renegotiate their positions on those topics.
Humanities

GN254 Survey of German Cinema
Hours 3
An overview of German Cinema from Silent Era in the 20’s through New German Cinema, to post-wall works. Topics: history, socio-cultural frame, directors and cinematography.

GN260 Holocaust In Film & Lit
HU
Hours 3
As the Holocaust recedes in time, written and filmic documents (history, autobiography, art) increasingly shape our perception and understanding of the event. In this course we investigate important and exemplary literary and filmic renderings of the Holocaust.
Humanities

GN264 German Literature Translatn I
HU, L
Hours 3
German 264 is a survey in English of German literary masterpieces from the Middle Ages to the period around 1800. This semester we will read the highly influential epic poem from German medieval literature – Nibelungenlied; a picaresque novel from the Early Modern period – The Life of Courage; an essay on the question “What is Enlightenment?” by the eighteenth-century philosopher Immanuel Kant; Gotthold Ephraim Lessing’s increasingly topical “dramatic poem” urging religious toleration – Nathan the Wise; a tragedy by Friedrich Schiller which banned throughout German-speaking Europe for its seemingly controversial message – The Robbers; and we will finish with what is often regarded as the most canonical text of German literature – Goethe’s Faust I. We will also examine the impact these literary works have had and still have on German culture, including art, music and film.
Humanities, Literature

GN265 Masterpieces of German Literature in English Translation
HU, L
Hours 3
The course introduces students to major works of German literature in different genres from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Themes include politics, gender, war and peace, issues of class, race and sexuality. Through the use of film and other media we will attempt to follow the introduction of these literary works into the popular imagination.

IT330 Violence in Rome across the Ages: Literature, Art, Film, Spectacle
Hours 3
Rome is a city with a glorious but bloodied past. From the gladiator arenas of the ancient empire to the terrorism of the 1970s, from predictions of the city’s divine castigation to the futurists’ desire to symbolically blow the place up, the history of Rome across the centuries has been one peppered with violence of diverse forms, motivations, and consequences. In this class, students will approach the major periods and problems of Roman history (antiquity, the Middle Ages, the Renaissance and the Roman Inquisition, the Napoleonic era, the Interbellum period, Nazi occupation, and the era of modern terrorism) through the lens of brutality as a historical, social, literary, and artistic phenomenon in Rome and the regions that fell under its control. Combining close readings of literary texts and the study of artistic, performative, and musical works and film, along with the consideration of select scholarly histories, students will explore the different shapes violence takes and why, from the legendary, spectacular, and aesthetic to the religious and apocalyptic, from war, authoritarianism, torture, and terrorism to satire and regeneration. Taught in English.
IT335 The Italian Mafia: History, Literature and Film
Hours 3
From its local origins in Sicily, the Mafia has become a global phenomenon and a widespread model of organized crime that threatens and corrupts the international economy, political systems, and social environments. Although its power and underworld activities affect legal business, control illegal traffic, and trample human rights, a romanticized and even heroic vision of the Mafia nevertheless persists in film, television, and literature. This class explores the history of the Mafia and efforts to combat it from the nineteenth century until today, setting the realities of organized crime against the representations of it found in American and Italian movies, novels, and media. We will not only challenge the stereotypes through which cultural productions envision the Mafiosi but also, and more importantly, we will explore how the Mafiosi envision the world. Taught in English.

IT364 Masterpieces of Italian Literature in Translation: From the Middle Ages to Early Modernity
L
Hours 3
This course traces Italian literature and thought from its origins to early modernity (13th-17th centuries). Through a broad spectrum of genres (poetry, epic, short stories, letters, comedy, treatises, dialogue, librettos), it examines questions of love, sin, beauty, power, appearance, truth, deception, and civility. By analyzing major moments in intellectual history, from the composition of Dante's Inferno to the birth of humanism to the scientific revolution, this class also considers the role and importance of the liberal arts and suggests that in these centuries literature, art, music, theater, philosophy, history, and science were interwoven disciplines proper to man's understanding of self and society.

The goal is to learn Latin not just for its own sake but as a means to gain insight into how the Romans lived and thought. Additionally, students will examine the following throughout the course: the influence of the Latin language and Roman authors throughout literature into the Middle Ages and Renaissance, English derivatives of Latin vocabulary, foundational grammar in romance languages, and modern uses in literature, religion, philosophy, law, and science.

Prerequisite(s): LA 101

Foreign Language, Humanities
LA201 Intermed Latin Read I
HU
Hours 3
This course provides an introduction to reading Latin prose texts, with a focus on reviewing and applying the rules of Latin grammar that students learned in Latin 101-102/high school Latin to the reading of original, unadapted Latin texts. Understanding of grammar and syntax will be emphasized throughout. Readings for this semester will focus on the Carthaginian general Hannibal, Rome’s greatest enemy, who invaded Italy during the Second Punic War (218-201 BC). Students will read from Eutropius, who in the 4th century AD discussed Hannibal in his Breviarium (“Abridgement” of Roman History); and a biography of Hannibal by Cornelius Nepos, written in the 1st century BC. This will allow students to compare and contrast depictions of Hannibal over a range of centuries and discuss how he is understood by different authors.
Prerequisite(s): LA 102 or equivalent (usually at least 3 years of high school Latin with an average of B or better).

SP367 Spanish for International Relations
Hours 3
This course allows students to learn methods to understand and write documents in technical areas that are usually not taught in conventional language courses, such as International Relations and their intersection with Economics and Political Science. This course adds a useful dimension to language learning by making Spanish a valuable tool for students who will operate in a modern world, where international communications are rapidly expanding. Students will also have the opportunity to practice and improve their knowledge of Spanish grammar and syntax.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356
SP371 Literatures and Cultures of Spain until 1800

Hours 3

This course is designed to explore Spanish literature from the Middle Ages until the 18th century. This course offers a panoramic view of the main styles and discourses that characterize the evolution of Spain's culture. Class debates will be the main interaction method during this course. Students' reading and writing skills will be reinforced and worked on, particularly as it pertains to critical thinking and writing. Writing proficiency is required for a passing grade in this course. A student who does not write with the skill normally required of an upper-division student will not earn a passing grade, no matter how well the student performs in other areas of the course.

Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366

SP383 Fundamentals of Spanish Linguistics

Hours 3

This course is an introduction to Spanish linguistics. It establishes a foundation for the scientific study of language, with Spanish as the object of investigation. At its broadest level linguistics formalizes generalizations about the human faculty of language, a unique cognitive ability that allows us to learn any language(s) that we are exposed to as children and use this knowledge throughout our lives in a variety of ways. The Spanish language is a manifestation of this human capacity and, therefore, Spanish linguistics focuses on understanding how this language in particular works within a general human cognitive framework, as well as its social context.

Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366
SP384 Spanish Pronunciation: From Theory to Practice
Hours 3
This course provides students with an introduction to the fundamental features of Spanish pronunciation. This includes an awareness of the sound inventory of Spanish and its variants, the creation of syllables and assignment of word stress, and finally the production of a unique Spanish rhythm and intonation. Students are given basic linguistic tools of analysis along with practical guidance on how to improve their pronunciation in Spanish.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366

SP389 Spanish Outreach
Hours 3
The Spanish Outreach Program is a unique service learning class that seeks to place Spanish majors and minors as semester interns in local schools where they will assist our younger members of society with individual tutoring, comprehension of lesson, personal dialogue, interpretation, and other language based tasks. At the same time the UA "Outreachers" can hone their linguistic skills while they serve the Tuscaloosa-Northport community.
Prerequisite(s): SP353 SP356 Must be a major or minor in Spanish Minimum GPA of 3.0 Must interview with Program Director

SP390 Special Topics
Hours 1-6
Special studies on topics related to Spanish language, literature, and culture. The content of the course varies from semester to semester. A maximum of 6 credit hours may be earned in SP 390.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 and SP 356; and (SP 364 or SP 366)

SP426 Contemporary Approaches to Spain
Hours 3
This course is an introduction to contemporary Spanish literature, art and culture. The course includes a selection of works to apply a variety of critical perspectives. Students will consider the social and political events of the period and their effect on Spanish identities. Students will analyze key works from various perspectives and will apply different theoretical tools, including cultural studies. Students will learn about how social and political changes of the period (from the Spanish civil War to the recent years of Democratic stability), affected cultural production in Spain. The content of the course includes the literary, artistic, and cultural characteristics of contemporary Spain.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366, and Two of the following: SP 371, SP 372, SP 375, SP 376 or SP 377.

SP430 Hispanic Culture through Film
Hours 3
This course explores contemporary Hispanic culture through visual representations. The course analyzes many films that reflect and represent the social, political, and cultural changes in the Hispanic world. By analyzing cinema and artistic representations, along with selected critical articles on film theory, the course examines women's roles in society, domestic violence, migration, social problems, globalization, unemployment, and the crisis, among other topics. This course explores the sociological, cultural and political forces that have inspired such visual representations and it focuses on different filmic representations: Latin American, Trans-Atlantic or Spanish cinema.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366, and Two of the following: SP 371, SP 372, SP 375, SP 376 or SP 377.

SP437 Social Justice in the Hispanic World
Hours 3
This course is an undergraduate seminar designed to allow students to explore different perspectives covering societal and cultural issues of social justice in the Hispanic world throughout the centuries. This focus on global issues aims to connect students as global citizens with universal cultural considerations. Each iteration of this course may focus on a different specialty, including linguistics or literature, and may range from a variety of locations (Latin America and/or Spain) to several time periods (Colonial, Early modern, 18-19 or 20-21 centuries).
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366, and Two of the following: SP 371, SP 372, SP 375, SP 376 or SP 377

SP483 Advanced Spanish Linguistics
Hours 3
This course examines several topics, including the sound system of the language (phonology), how words are formed (morphology), how phrases and sentences are created (syntax), and how words develop different meanings (semantics and pragmatics). In addition, we discuss other areas such as the evolution of Spanish from Latin, and language variation and change (dialecdology and sociolinguistics).
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366, and SP 383, and SP 384.

SP484 Advanced Spanish Phonetics and Dialectology
Hours 3
This course introduces students to phonetic and phonology features of Spanish within the context of regional variation. The course provides the tools of basic phonetic transcription, which can be used to represent different pronunciations in the Spanish-speaking world. This enhanced view of the Spanish sound system is also used to demonstrate differences with the pronunciation of English.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366, and SP 383, and SP 384.

SP485 Special Topics: Spanish Linguistics
Hours 3
This course offers students the opportunity to examine an area of Spanish linguistics in more depth. Topics vary, as each iteration of this course is expected to cover different areas of Spanish Linguistics. Examples: History of the Spanish Language, Spanish Syntax, Bilingualism, Sociolinguistics, and Spanish-English Contrasts.
Prerequisite(s): SP 353 or SP 355, and SP 356, and SP 364 or SP 366, and SP 383, and SP 384.

THAI102 Elementary Thai
FL

Hours 3

This course will emphasize the development of practical communicative ability in Thai along with basic cultural knowledge of Thai. The class has a supervised self-study structure. Students are required to study the textbook and practice with assigned audiovisual materials (CDs, DVDs or computer video files) by themselves outside the class. Students have practice sessions three hours per week with a language trainer who is a native/near native speaker (or ACTFL advanced-high or superior level) of the language in class. The language trainer will help students develop their communicative ability during class meetings. During the sessions students will actively participate in practicing spoken language to acquire better pronunciation and conversation skills. English use will be kept to a minimum in class. Language trainers will monitor active participation throughout the semester by use of the Student Performance Sheet which will be sent to the director of the CLC. Regular class attendance and participation is required. Cultural aspects of Thai will be added to communication practice of Thai.

Prerequisite(s): THAI 101 with a grade of C- or higher, or passed the placement exam under supervision of the CLC director AND permitted by the director.
